Electronic Data Discovery

A chain is only as strong as its weakest link. Electronic data discovery is an integral part in preserving, preparing and presenting electronic evidence.
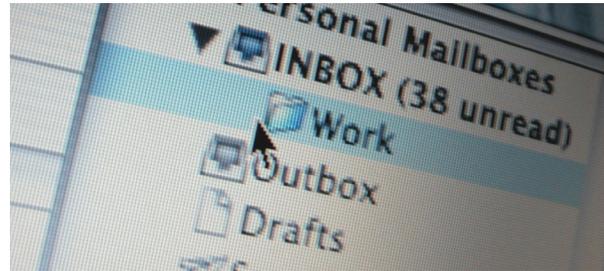

You need a service provider that has the legal and technical expertise to support all your evidentiary requirements. Capsicum Group, LLC professionals have over 12 years of experience in pre-discovery planning, computer forensics, processing, production and testimony. We have a long list of satisfied clients who we are proud to say have been with us since our inception.

As a legal or IT professional with an impending discovery request, you need a vendor that can quickly and accurately address your data discovery needs while defensibly reducing data volumes utilizing the most advanced predictive coding and early case assessment technologies. Capsicum can accommodate any client data volume and provide secure data back-up utilizing redundant environments for your data's protection.

We've handled 28 TB projects while also regularly addressing those assignments that are just a few MB in size. We know about discovery protocols and are often asked to testify on forensic analysis and spoliation.

We can assist you with:

• Development of a discovery protocol customized to your specific needs.

• The early case assessment, searching, culling and review of key data.

• Preserving, handling and collecting your data while utilizing proper chain of custody and security protocols to ensure that your data collection is legally defensible.

• Processing and hosting with an emphasis on educating our clients on how current technologies such as predictive coding and sampling, can add value and efficiency to the e-discovery process.

• Production and testimony

Evidence Review

Capsicum Group understands that the greatest time and costs associated with legal, regulatory, and investigative matters occurs at the review stage. There is just too much data and too little time and money, and our clients are looking for opportunities to better manage this activity and accelerate review. This is where we come in.

Our focus and dedication to quality is a key component of our project management methodology and our greatest asset is the unyielding service and guidance we provide to our clients.

Successful e-discovery is contingent on an effective review. Capsicum helps clients reduce e-discovery time and costs with robust review technology and industry-leading services. Our proven evidence review services enable clients to accelerate document review with the combined power of Relativity - our hosting platform. Relativity's robust feature set includes image and native file review, powerful searching, diverse coding options, flexible workflow capabilities, Unicode and foreign language support, and conceptual searching.