

Who We Are & What We Do

From its formal launch in 2000, Capsicum Group has been helping its clients get the most from their technology investments. We quickly determined that our clients needed assistance in understanding and responding to the many requests for electronic data. Since that time, digital evidence has increasingly become more critical, fast paced and costly. We have correspondingly focused on the quality, responsiveness, and efficiency of the electronic litigation process.

Our team possesses the education, experience and certified knowledge to lead or assist with the most complex technical environments, regardless of the size or industry. Our professionals gained practical experience while previously working at the Department of Homeland Security (DHS), Federal Bureau of Investigation (FBI), Internal Revenue Service (IRS), US Securities and Exchange Commission (SEC), National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA), and US Army Intelligence as well as accounting and law firms. Current academic and professional certifications amongst our professionals include: CISSP, MCSE, CEH, CFCE, CEECS, CCE, EnCE, Paraben PDA Examiner, A+, CCFTA, CPA, MBA and JD.

We provide comprehensive support in data acquisition, computer forensics and digital investigations, electronic data discovery (EDD), IT security, hosting, incident response, media recovery and testimony. With our experienced staff, creative minds, and advanced technologies, we can assist you or your clients in any phase of the electronic litigation process. We perform this work in civil litigation, criminal and regulatory matters and corporate investigations.

We've always been strong in Philadelphia, New York and New Jersey but now we have staff and locations in Florida, Washington D.C., and Texas.

We bring our clients the knowledge of best practices gained from our frontline experience in technology, investigations and the litigation process.
